

VARIED GUESSES AS TO POPULATION

Wide Difference in Estimates as to What Official Census Report for City Will Reveal.

RESULT TO BE KNOWN IN JUNE

Enumerators Took Oath They Would Not Divulge Information in Advance of Department.

Now that the enumerators who were engaged in taking the decennial census in Seymour have completed their work and have filed their reports with the district census director, many local people are indulging in the pastime of making guesses relative to the population of the city. The question is a popular one in barbershops, stores and other places where matters of state craft and other problems of great importance are solved—usually with the same number of solutions as there are participants in the discussion. The estimates of Seymour's population, likewise, are almost as varied as the number of guessers, and inasmuch as no one has any official information that can be produced at this time everyone feels he has a right to present any evidence he may have in proof of the accuracy of his contention. Thus the arguments produce new angles each day, giving rise to additional points of disputes. The guesses as to the city's population vary all the way from 6,000 to 10,500, according to those who

FORMER LOCAL MINISTER EXPIRES IN BALTIMORE

The Rev. J. A. Sargent, at One Time Pastor of First M. E. Church, Succumbs to Illness.

The Rev. J. A. Sargent, aged seventy-six years, at one time pastor of the First Methodist church in this city, died Thursday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Loreu M. Edwards, in Baltimore, following an illness of several weeks. Mrs. Sargent died here in 1905 when her husband was pastor of the local Methodist church.

Dr. Sargent was for fifty years a member of the Indiana Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. He was graduated from Moore's Hill College in 1869 and entered the old Southeast Indiana Conference, afterward merged with the Indiana Conference. For thirty-five years he served as pastor and presiding elder, as the district superintendents were then called.

He was presiding elder of the Connersville district from 1888 to 1894 and of the Moore's Hill district from 1897 to 1903. He was twice a delegate to the general conference, serving in that capacity in 1892 and 1896. For many years he was a trustee of Moore's Hill College.

Dr. Sargent's early life was a typical struggle of a strong, determined country boy, left fatherless at 12, and overcoming by sturdy perseverance and indomitable will the many handicaps of those early days. By sheer force of faithful effort he worked his way through college and rose in his conference to positions of large trust and responsibility, being recognized as a leader in the Methodist church of the state.

After the death of Mrs. Sargent, in 1905, he relinquished his charge and devoted himself to the cause of the retired ministers of the conference. For thirteen years he served as general secretary of the Preachers' Aid Society, with headquarters in Indianapolis. His administration was marked by distinct advances in the sums bequeathed to the society for the relief of the men who had given their lives to the service of the church. For about two years he has been secretary emeritus of the society, when, because of impaired health, he has been able to do little active work.

While living in Indianapolis, Dr. Sargent made his home with his son, Hurst H. Sargent. For three years he made his home in Baltimore with

REGISTRATION IS HELD NECESSARY

Every Voter in Jackson County Required to Enroll to Qualify for November Election.

1919 ACT ONLY ONE IN FORCE

Women Also Must Register, According to Ruling Given to Indiana Election Board.

Every voter in Jackson county will be required to register in order to vote in the November election. This ruling has been given to the state election board and is contrary to the belief of the majority of voters who thought that they would not be required to register for this election unless they had moved from the precinct since the last election. As women will also vote in the coming election they are interested in election information equally with men. Charles O. Roemer and W. H. Thompson whose ruling on Indiana election laws are generally accepted by both parties, announced their decision relative to the registration requirements. The attorneys say that the 1919 general assembly passed an act providing for the registration of voters. A separate act specifically repealed the registration law passed in 1917, which had repealed the laws passed in 1915 and 1911.

Thus the 1919 act is the only one now in force. It makes it unlawful

T. S. BLISH NAMED MEMBER OF BOARD OF GOVERNORS

Secures Appointment on Important Committee of Indiana Chamber of Commerce.

T. S. Blish, president of the Blish Milling Company, has accepted an appointment on the board of governors of the Indiana State Chamber of Commerce. This information was given out today from the headquarters of the State Chamber in the Merchants Bank Building, Indianapolis.

The board of governors of the State Chamber carries the names of some of the best known business and professional men in Indiana, one member being selected from each congressional district. Mr. Blish is the Fourth District representative on the board.

The State Chamber of Commerce, under its new management, is entering upon a wider field of activity. Following the successful fight in the Indiana-Illinois freight rate case, in which the State Chamber had the cooperation of the Indiana public service commission and other organizations, further activities toward rate equalization for Indiana industries are receiving special attention through the freight and traffic department of the State Chamber.

WHISKY PERMITS WILL NOT BE ISSUED

Local Druggists and Physicians Interested in Drastic Regulation Just Announced.

Ruling of Prohibition Commissioner in Conflict With Statement of Federal Bureau.

Doctors and pharmacists in this city are interested in an announcement made today by Charles J. Orbison, federal prohibition commissioner in Indiana, to the effect that whiskey cannot be sold in Indiana, even for medicinal purposes. He announced that no permits for the sale of intoxicants would be issued to druggists in this state. The ruling of Orbison is in direct conflict with the announcement of the department of internal revenue that whiskey might be sold by druggists for medicinal purposes when prescriptions from physicians were presented. Orbison holds that the ruling of the bureau of internal revenue in contravention with the Indiana state laws.

A dispatch from Indianapolis today to The Republican relative to Orbison's ruling follows:

"Whiskey cannot be sold in Indiana even for medicinal purposes, Charles J. Orbison, federal prohibition commissioner for Indiana ruled today.

S. H. S. TO MEET SCOTTSBURG

Niehaus Will Not Appear in Game Tonight.

The S. H. S. basketball quintet went to Scottsburg today to play the high school basketball team there tonight. The Scott county lads have had an enviable chain of victories for the entire season without a break and it is the purpose of the locals to break that chain twice this season, tonight being their first opportunity while the last home game, Feb. 27, will be the second. The S. H. S. players developed a combination of speed and team work last Friday when they defeated the fast Hopewell quintet that will make any team take notice. It is deeply regretted by local enthusiasts that Niehaus will not appear in the line-up tonight, suffering from a sprained ligament in his back.

The local floor guard will not play tonight, Saturday the S. H. S. quintet will play at Madison. The date for return game will be announced later.

Jail Delivery Frustrated.

Los Angeles, January 30—Jailor George Gallagher today frustrated plans for a jail delivery which he said would have freed Harry S. New, convicted murderer.

Gallagher discovered in the cells a heavy club and file in the possession of Lewis Harris, convicted robber at the county jail. He declared an investigation showed Harris and nine other prisoners, including New had planned the delivery.

Harris had already made one escape and failed in a second.

Any previously contemplated effort to procure the release of Harry S. New on bail pending an appeal or to keep him in the county jail here instead of permitting him to be sent to San Quentin probably will be abandoned it was understood today.

Deadlock Continues.

Washington, January 30—Indefinite continuation of the bi-partisan treaty compromise was forecast today when it was announced that the conferees would not discuss article ten at today's session, nor until Senator Hitchcock returns from a week's trip to Nebraska. Hitchcock, one of the conferees, leaves tonight.

The decision to take up other unsettled questions was believed to indicate that the conferees on both sides are going to take all possible steps to prevent the treaty from being thrown again into the senate.

Dr. McCulloch characterized the present administration with the "centralization of power" as a "center which has attacked the body politic."

AGREEMENT NEAR ON RAILROAD BILL

Overwhelming Majority of Congress in Favor of Returning Properties to Owners.

PASSAGE EXPECTED SOON

Action to be Taken So Roads Can Go Back at Time Designated by President.

By United Press

Washington, January 30—A final agreement by senate and house conferees on railroad legislation is near it was learned today.

It is now believed to be virtually certain that the railroad bill will be passed early next month, so that there will be no hitch in the president's announced plans to return the lines to their owners, March 1.

The overwhelming majority of congress still favors the return of roads to their owners as soon as possible, despite efforts of labor and other organizations to extend government control two years, in the hope that the Plumb plan can then be put into effect.

Republican leaders are determined to push the railroad bill through as soon as possible, and to do this some features of it may be left for later legislation.

Anti-strike legislation probably will not be in the conference report. Senate leaders by a recent canvass found that the majority of the

HORIZONTAL INCREASES IN ASSESSMENTS HELD VALID

DECISION AFFECTS LOCAL TAX CASES

Actions Filed Against State Tax Board in This County Similar to Indianapolis Suit.

QUESTION ONE OF AUTHORITY

Litigation Instituted By Blish Milling Company Involves Different Point of Law.

The opinion of the appellate court in upholding the horizontal increases in assessments made by the state tax board in Marion county is taken to mean that further fight in the cases of a similar character filed in Jackson county would be useless. Judge James A. Cox gave judgment against the state tax board in the action instituted by G. H. Anderson in behalf of the City of Seymour, at the last term of court, and this judgment will stand until it is expunged from the records or is reversed on appeal. As the case now stands, the state board would be required to prosecute the appeal from Judge Cox's decision, but it is likely that steps may be taken to avoid this unnecessary litigation. It is known that the appellate court would reserve the decision given in the Jackson circuit court and an appeal would be merely a matter of procedure.

Montgomery & Montgomery, attorneys for Mr. Anderson, stated this morning they would not announce their next step in the fight until after they have received a copy of the appellate court opinion and have had time to study and analyze it.

"On the face of the opinion," declared Judge O. H. Montgomery today, "it appears, of course, that there is no hope for the local cases. However, we are not prepared to say what our next step will be until after we get a copy of the opinion and

OPINION GIVEN BY APPELLATE COURT

Appeal Taken by State Tax Board From Decision of Marion County Judge is Sustained.

INJUNCTION HELD INVALID

Court Holds "Chaos and Confusion" Would Result From Change in Tax Measure.

By United Press

Indianapolis, January 30—The Indiana appellate court today upheld the action of the state board of tax commissioners ordering horizontal increases in property valuation. The court sustained the appeal of the tax board from the decision of Judge Linn Hay, who granted a group of Marion county farmers an injunction restraining collection of increased taxes. Judge Hay granted the injunction December 5 to farmers from eight of the nine townships in Marion county, and his decision prevented the collection of taxes in Marion county. This injunction was declared invalid and "contrary to law" by the appellate court.

The decision has the effect of legalizing horizontal increases in practically every county in the state. The increases were contested in many of the counties and on the decision today rested the probability of changing the present tax law at another special session of the legislature.

To uphold Judge Hay would mean "widespread litigation throughout the state; great curtailment of revenue for the state, county, town, township, school hospital, road, bond payment, in fact for all purposes of government; irreparable injury and confusion in the collection of taxes and the breaking down of the revenue system for the year," the court said.

"Should the decree of the trial court be sustained it means the revenue not only for state purposes but for all local governments, including county, city, town, township, road, school hospital, bond, sinking fund, library, park, health and sanitation funds will be depleted; that deficits of serious character will occur, that bond obligations will be defaulted; school terms cut short; roads neglected; methods for the protection of health and sanitation curtailed and all processes of government, state and local, seriously interfered with. Confusion and chaos in the levying and collection of taxes will follow."

The court contends that the injury suffered by the appellees in the refusal to grant the injunction "when compared and balanced with the injury to the public, should the injunction granted by the lower court be upheld, is not such as called for or justified in a court of equity in granting injunctive relief."

for any one to vote at the general election unless he has registered. In response to the inquiry concerning when and how voters must register to be entitled to vote at the November election, the attorneys detail the various steps required by the law. The law requires the registration board to hold in each precinct two regular sessions this year, the first on the fifty-ninth day before the regular election in November and the second the twenty-ninth day before the election. Every person having the qualifications required of a voter may register. Any woman voter whose name has been changed by marriage, divorce or court decree subsequent to the registration and prior to the election must file with the election board on the date of the election a certified copy of the court decree or certificate of marriage.

A person who is unable to appear before the registration board in person may sign and swear to an application, or have it certified to by two voters living in the applicant's precinct, and the application may then be delivered to the registration board, either by messengers or mail.

The attorneys were asked when precinct boundaries may be established, altered or changed. They say that the law specifies that every order of the board of county commissioners for such changes must be made not later than the March session and the precincts shall remain throughout the year as they are established at such March session or previously. The notice required by law of the establishment of precincts or boundary changes shall be announced not later than ten days after the March session. In counties where there is a use of voting machines where machines were not used at the time of the passage of the act, there may be changes in precincts before the first Monday in June, but only by combining two or more precincts into one.

have listened to the conversations at the various centers of free and unhampered expression. There are a few people who believe that the population is not as large now as it was ten years ago when the city was credited with 6,305 souls. Nobody in Seymour was ever convinced that that census report was correct and an unofficial census taken later showed about 7,000 people here. But those who think the city has not grown in the last ten years insist that many young men have moved away and that the demand for houses was almost as great then as it is now. Those who hold to this contention are exceptions.

The highest guess that has come to the attention of observers was 10,500. Quite a few estimate the present population at 10,000 and a considerable number of others think that 9,000 will not be far from the official report. These claimants insist that more houses have been erected within the former city boundaries and that the population must necessarily be larger as no vacant houses are to be found. In addition, they say, the population of the city was increased from three to four hundred, at least, when the council recently annexed a considerable area of new territory, much of which was built up with homes.

The majority of people, it is believed place the present population somewhere between 7,300 and 8,000. These form what might be known as the conservative class of guessers. They have their "dope" figured out in rather a convincing way and are able to give effective answers to those who dispute their figures. In the first place they contend that the census given ten years ago was approximately correct, so far as census figures go, admitting that a hundred or more of persons might have been overlooked by the enumerators. They point out that the unofficial census taken several months after the official figures were announced included the suburbs which were not then part of the city.

The conservative guessers further point out that too many people overestimate the number of inhabitants in the suburbs. They claim that not more than three or four hundred were added as a result of the corporation extension and that the growth of the city has not exceeded six hundred which would bring the total population up to 7,305.

However, until the census department settles the question by making official announcement of figure, any guess is just as apt to be correct as another. It is the uncertainty of the proposition that encourages the prolonged discussion.

WHISKEY PERMITS WILL NOT BE ISSUED

today. He announced no permits for the sale of liquor by druggists on prescription or no permits for the issuance of booze prescriptions by physicians will be given out in Indiana.

"Orbison said he was taking this stand because such action would conflict with state law as it is interpreted by the courts. Permission will be given only for the sale of grain alcohol by druggists on prescription.

"The regulations have been received from the bureau of internal revenue providing that permits may be issued by the state prohibition director, to physicians for the prescription of intoxicants and to druggists for the sale of booze on prescription. But the federal government will in no way interfere with the enforcement of the state law, Orbison said."

The ruling of the federal bureau which is invalidated by the Orbison order follows:

IF A WOMAN DOESN'T KNOW WHAT SHE WANTS WHO DOES!

How do you expect to get what you want from the grocery store unless you ask for it by name?

Too many women ask for "a bar of soap"—"a can of red paint" or "a pound of butter." The groceryman sends you any kind he has. A few of them seize this opportunity to send you some product that hasn't been selling well.

To get the real value for your money, ask for what you want by name.

Thousands of women have proved this by asking for Joy Soap—always by name. They know this is the best soap they can buy for washing and housecleaning. They like it because it is firm and white; because it does the work quicker, easier and more pleasantly; because it lasts longer and doesn't feel sticky or "soapy."

They do not want to take the chance of having an inferior soap wished on them. They always say—"Joy Soap!"

You will find that it pays to do the same. Once you try Joy Soap, you will never want to try another kind.

Ask your grocer for Joy by name, today. Every time you want the really best clean up helper, specify Joy Soap—it works like a wizard.

Before the service, Mrs. Norma Schneider sang, "At Dawning," and Miss Marguerite Lewis played the wedding march. The attendants were Miss Marguerite Werner and Norman Schneider. The bride wore a frock of white organdy and a wedding veil of tulle and princess lace, fashioned in cap effect. She carried Bride roses. Miss Werner wore pink, georgette crepe and carried pink roses. INCOME TAX LAW IS MORE LIBERAL Single Men Who Have Dependents Entitled to Higher Exemption Than Was Allowed in 1919.

NORMAL RATES ARE LOWER

A Number of Other Exemption Privileges Not Heretofore Granted Are Provided Now.

The man who pays an income tax this year has several reasons for which to be thankful. First, that his income for 1919 was sufficient to place it within the taxable list; second, that the normal rates are lower than for 1918; and, third, that the current revenue act is more liberal in its provisions than preceding acts.

Prior to 1916 a distinction was made between only two classes of taxpayers. A man was either married or single, and was taxed accordingly. The act of September 8, 1917, extended the exemption privileges in one respect. Recognition was taken of the fact that many unmarried persons, in the maintenance of a household, assume the same responsibilities as a married man. Under the 1916 act the exemptions allowed a married person were extended to include the "head of a family." A single man if his net income for 1919 was $1,000 or more must file a return, but if he is the sole support of relatives by blood, marriage, or adoption, living in the same household with him, and if he exercises control of household affairs, he is granted an exemption of $2,000.

Still another distinction was drawn by the revenue act of 1917. An additional allowance of $200 was made for each child dependent upon its parent provided such child was under 18 or mentally or physically defective. The exemption applied only to the father or mother who was supporting a dependent child in his or her household.

The revenue act of 1918 extended further the exemption privileges. The additional $200 allowance now applies to each "person (other than husband or wife) dependent upon the taxpayer, if such person is under 18 years of age, or incapable of self-support." Thus, for example, if a man supports his mother, uncle, or aunt in a sanitarium, he is entitled to the $200 additional exemption, but if he supports his children at home and his wife in a sanitarium he receives no additional exemption for his wife.

Under the 1913 act deductions for losses sustained outside of the taxpayers' regular business were not allowed. The merchant or professional man who took an unfortunate fall in the stock market was granted no allowance for such loss in the making of his income-tax return. The act of 1916 allowed such losses to the extent of gains in similar transactions. For example the taxpayer who, such not being his regular business, made $100 in one stock transaction and in another lost $1,000 was required to report the $100 gain and could deduct only that amount as a loss. The 1918 act provides for the deduction of all losses "if incurred in any transaction entered into for profit, though not connected with trade or business."

Prior to 1917 deductions for contributions to corporations organized for religious, charitable, scientific, or educational purposes were not allowed. Under the current act such deductions are allowed to an amount not in excess of 15 per cent of taxpayer's net income.

The normal rate of tax for 1919 is 4 per cent on the first $4,000 or net income and 8 per cent on net income above that amount. As in 1918 the tax may be paid in full or in four installments, the first of which must accompany the filing of the return on or before March 15, the second on or before June 15, the third on or before September 15, and the fourth on or before December 15. Forms for making returns may now be obtained at the offices of collectors of internal revenue, post offices, and banks. If the taxpayer's net income for 1919 was $5,000 or less, he should ask for Form 1040-A. If it was more than $5,000, he should ask for Form 1040. The assistance of trained revenue agents, who will visit every county in the United States, is offered taxpayers in making out their returns.

BEVERIDGE SOUNDS G. O. P. BATTLE CRY

Causes and Solution of Problems

Confronting America Analyzed

By Former Senator.

DISCUSSES SOARING PRICES

Declares "America Has Always Been

Most Propaganda Ridden

Country in World."

Detroit, January 30—Albert J. Beveridge, former senator from Indiana, sounded the Republican battle cry in a stirring address here last night. He discusses causes and solutions of foreign and domestic problems confronting America and analyzed them with characteristic clearness and force. He appealed for loyalty to the American government and defined "free speech."

His address in part follows:

Fellow Republicans:

"We Republicans take our stand on American institutions—all American institutions, not some American institutions. We fight for the fundamentals of American liberty—all of them, not some of them. We are straight-out American Nationalists and against crooked European internationalism in all its guises and disguises."

"We are for representative government by all the people against autocracy by particular groups. We are for that lawful free speech which the Constitution guarantees to every citizen and against monopoly of free speech by certain citizens. We are for the rule of all under laws applicable to all; and we deny that any man, group, organization or party can rightfully claim or exercise exemption for their special advantage on the one hand or for the oppression of others on the other hand."

Discussing freedom of speech, Mr. Beveridge said:

"In this Republic, free speech has only two limitations: No man may advocate or practice resistance to the laws or the violent overthrow of the Government. Within these limitations any citizen may say what he likes, and when he does so he is shielded by the constitution of the United States."

"It does not matter that he advocates unpopular doctrines; it is his constitutional right to try to make them popular. If he believes abuses exist, it is indeed his duty as a citizen to convince his fellow citizens by argument if he can. Who now defends the attempts to suppress the Abolitionists of seventy years ago? Who now upholds the mob practices of that time, sanctioned though they then were by the 'best society' and the 'most respectable' people?"

"The right of every citizen by the lawful exercise of free speech to try to change our institutions themselves by peaceable methods is the very heart and soul of those institutions."

"We Republicans stand for regular Government under the Constitution."

"We Republicans stand for the rights of all the people defined by general laws applicable to all the people, passed by representatives of all the people, approved and executed by a President of all the people."

"We Republicans are against special privileges for any group or organization or class whether of capital or of labor; and we are against those who pander to the oligarchs of wealth or of toil."

"We Republicans are against those who deny to any citizen the exercise of the right of lawful free speech on the one hand, and against those who deny to any citizen the exercise of the right to do lawful work on the other hand."

"The Republicans battle cry is: All American institutions, not some American institutions. With these words of truth and glory on our lips and in our hearts we go forth to battle and to victory—and to victory that will be worth the winning."

Mr. Beveridge devoted a portion of his address to a study of the peace treaty and league of nations.

"The fact that the League Covenant is not a treaty but is a constitution of a new government, is the heart of the mighty issue that has been thrust upon us. Nobody now denies—nobody truthfully can deny that this is so. Mr. Wilson himself has announced, time and again, that the Covenant of the League of Nations is the constitution of a new government—the constitution of a world government," as he calls it, the constitution of a new international system.

"In this international government,

ARMISTICE!

Constipation, Headache, Colds, Biliousness, Surrender to "Cascarets"

Bring back peace! Enjoy life! Your system is filled with liver and bowel poison which keeps your skin sallow, your stomach upset, your head dull and aching. Your meals are turning into poison, gases and acids. You can not feel right. Don't stay bilious or constipated. Feel splendid always by taking Cascarets occasionally. They act without griping or inconvenience. They never sicken you like Calomel, Salts, Oil or nasty, harsh Pills. They cost so little too—Cascarets work while you sleep.

America is to be represented not by officials elected by the American people, but by two or three functionaries appointed by an Administration that the people have already condemned and will overthrow next November. Nevertheless these factotums of a rejected and repudiated Administration can and will entangle America in foreign engagements from which it will be difficult to free ourselves with honor.

"Worse still, there is no agreement as to the meaning of the most vital provisions of this constitution of an international super-state. Mr. Wilson and Mr. Taft say that certain articles of the League Covenant mean one thing; the ablest lawyers and statesmen in America—or the world—men like Senator Lodge, Senator Knox, Elihu Root and David Jayne Hill—say that those articles mean exactly the other thing."

"Who is to decide what this new international constitution does mean? What power will construe it? It is vital for us to bear in mind at this moment, that the power that construes the constitution of the new government, determines the power that rules that new government."

—He deals with the high cost of living as follows:

"What are some of the causes of increased cost of living that are normal and beyond control of government? The first is the enormous growth of population. A few years ago there were only sixty million people in the United States; today, there are nearly a hundred and ten million. Each of those sixty million could, for natural reasons, get many necessities of life far more cheaply than the same essentials can possibly be procured now by any of our hundred and ten millions."

"There are other causes of high prices that are artificial, abnormal and that can be checked or abolished. One of these is inflation which has reached the dangerous height of over fifty per cent."

"Another artificial cause of the high cost of living is the levering up of wages which are instantly added to prices—prices of coal, of wood, of food, of clothing, rates on freight shipments, fares for passenger traffic. Since labor charges constitute the principal element in the cost of all products, the pyramiding of wages is among the most serious of the artificial causes of the high cost of living."

"When members of labor unions are already getting reasonable wages and, in addition, force still higher pay and shorter hours by attacking or threatening to attack the very existence of economic society, they merely lay all other citizens—the vast majority of all the people—un-

"ONLY ONE THING BREAKS MY COLD!"

"That's Dr. King's New Discovery for fifty years a cold-breaker"

Nothing but sustained quality and unflinching effectiveness can arouse such enthusiasm. Nothing but sure relief from stubborn colds and onrushing new ones, grippes, throat-tearing coughs, and croup could have made Dr. King's New Discovery the nationally popular and standard remedy it is today. Fifty years old and always reliable. Good for the whole family. A bottle in the medicine cabinet means a short-lived cold or cough. 60c and $1.20. All druggists.

Bowels that move spasmodically—free one day and stubborn the next—should be healthfully regulated by Dr. King's New Life Pills. In this way you keep the impurities of waste matter from circulating through the system by cleansing the bowels thoroughly and promoting the proper flow of bile.

der tribute for the special benefit of labor unions. They arbitrarily hoist the cost of living of everybody in order to get more to meet the cost of living themselves.

"It is said that this artificial, arbitrary and forcible increase of already reasonable wages, is only a compulsory division of the employers' abnormal profits. At best this is an admission that labor unions and employers are merely fighting over their joint loot of the general public. But, even were it otherwise; even were the boosting of wages nothing more than attempt to secure for labor a larger proportion of normal profits of the product which labor and capital jointly create, still the process is wrong economically and morally. This is true because profits fluctuate while labor charges are practically steady. Immense profits for one year or period may be, and generally are, followed by small profits—often by actual losses—for another year or period; while labor charges, once raised, are seldom lowered."

Discussing profiteering and restriction of business Mr. Beveridge said:

"It is as foolish as it is wicked to hand-cuff all business men with restrictions because of a few rogues among them who plunder all the people, their honest fellow business men included. These criminals who practice robbery in the name and under the forms of business ought to be put in jail; and they can be put in jail without punishing all business men, ninety-nine hundredths of whom are honest—far more honest and infinitely more useful to America than their political persecutors."

"Government investigation of business has been so increased and misused by an Administration that does not understand either government or business, that industrial and commercial America is now under an espionage as high-handed, bigoted and ignorant as that of the overthrown Czars of Russia."

"Another artificial cause of the high cost of living is the drain of American money in Europe. Every dollar of taxes, every cent of contributions is, in the end added to the cost of products. The whole Nation approved our war expenses; the American people made no complaint even at the outrageous waste and astounding extravagance as unnecessary as it was unprecedented, as reckless as it was wicked. We were determined to win the war; we had a President who had refused to prepare for war; a President who had sought and secured election on the plea that 'he kept us out of war' and a President who had declared just before the election that he did not know what the war was about. Therefore, when Germany, at last, literally kicked us into war, we were willing to see billions squandered by an incompetent Administration, if, thereby victory could be attained."

"But, aside from our war measures and war expenses; and long before we began hostilities, a process of milking the American people began which still continues. This has spread until even among ourselves a frenzy has grown up for collecting funds for every imaginable purpose—a frenzy which is a clear and distinct form of insanity not without traces of rascality. There are drives for this and drives for that, drives foreign and drives domestic. And yet we complain of the high cost of living."

"We must put an end to this madness. Henceforth the American people must resist attempts to extort from them their hard earned money on insufficient grounds. America has always been the most propaganda ridden country in the world; and today a greater number of foreign propagandists are at work in the United States than ever before in our history. Hundreds—perhaps thousands—of these men and women are traveling and speaking all over our Republic—and they travel and live luxuriously."

REFUSAL MEANS A HOPELESS CASE

Fort Wayne Woman Claims Illness

is Desperate if Trutona Fails.

SAYS GIVES NEW STRENGTH

Fort Wayne, Ind. January 30—

"If Trutona won't help you your case is hopeless," is an example of the remarkable faith Mrs. M. Sarsen, who lives on rural route No. 14, Fort Wayne, has in the perfect tonic, as expressed in a statement made recently by her.

"I think my troubles started with constipation," Mrs. Sarsen said. "The failure of my bowels to act regularly caused me to suffer from biliousness. Then too, I was bothered so much from gas formations in my stomach after eating. I'd no more than finish eating when I'd begin to swell up with gas and for a while I'd be pretty sick. Then, after a certain amount of disagreeable belching, I'd feel better until I'd eaten again. I went through the same experience over and over again. I'm getting along in years and aside from my other troubles I know I needed something to build me up."

"Well, my husband bought a bottle of Trutona for me at the People's Drug Store and I began using it according to directions. Trutona started its work by regulating my bowels perfectly. Then it wasn't long before the miserable gas formations began to cease. Today I have a good appetite, have a good natural taste in my mouth and have come up out of the former tired, draggy feeling that I used to experience. In fact, I am feeling better in every way now. Trutona is a preparation that should be in everyone's medicine cabinet all the time. If you want a medicine that will go through your whole system, clean out the filth and give you new energy and strength, take Trutona."

Trutona is now being introduced and explained in Seymour at W. L. Federmann's Drug Store.

The MAN NOBODY KNEW

"Thank you," said the doctor, and glanced at his daughter. "Yes. He had the making of a splendid man. I knew his parents and his grandparents. His career in Syracuse hadn't anything to do with his heredity, Mr. Hilliard; it was the result of badly chosen environment. He chose it himself, and he had all a young man's interest in temptation. But when those temptations were removed, when he was free to revert to his family traditions, why then he could—"

"It would please me a great deal more, doctor, if you looked at him independently and maybe a little less academically—if you didn't go so far beyond the actual facts."

"How do you mean?"

"Why," said Hilliard, "for one thing, in laying so much stress on his grandparents, Dick was the one who went overseas; his grandparents didn't. And his grandparents didn't go into action on the western front singing Stevenson's 'Requiem' at the top of their lungs and knowing that it was mighty appropriate, as Dick did!"

"What?" said Carol, straightening "What's that?"

"No." The doctor's negative was quiet, but decisive. "A man doesn't rise to heights of glory without some reason for it, Mr. Hilliard. But a man can resist his inheritance for a good many years, and suddenly stop resisting and revert to his family type. He can do it voluntarily or involuntarily. It's what we call atavism." He paused and smiled sadly. "The pity of it," he said, "is that in spite of his having failed in everything he tried to do in Syracuse, he would have made us proud of him, sooner or later, if he had stayed on here. I'm positive of that."

"Pity!" Hilliard straightened. This

WORKS HARD TO AVERT FLU EPIDEMIC

Government and City Health Officials Warn People to Keep Clean.

Stay Away from People with Coughs and Colds.

"Avoid crowds if you want to avoid influenza," says Association for Improving the Conditions of New York.

Keep your hands clean, drink plenty of fresh water; sleep with windows open; eat three uniform meals a day including a good breakfast.

People who have catarrh or frequent colds invite influenza, declares a prominent Kentucky druggist.

The membrane of the throat and nose is raw, sore and tender, and makes a lovely abiding place for germs to thrive and multiply.

He advises an inexpensive home-made remedy that will bring relief in less than a day and will stop all discharge and soothe and heal the inflamed membrane in a few days.

Thousands are making this beneficial remedy at home and anyone who has catarrh or a cold can do the same.

Pour three-quarters of an ounce of Mentholized Arcine into a pint bottle, then fill the bottle with water that has been boiled.

Gargle the throat as directed and snuff or spray the liquid into the nostrils twice daily. It's a simple way to get rid of cold and catarrh and keeps the nasal passage and throat clean and healthy.

Nearly all druggists dispense Mentholized Arcine in vials containing exactly three-quarters of an ounce, which is all you need to make a pint of this healthful medicine.

Lesson 5 February 1 First Quarter

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

PETER AND JOHN IN SAMARIA.

Acts 8:4-25.

(May be used with missionary application.)

GOLDEN TEXT—Ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.—Acts 1:8.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL.—1 Kings 17:24-31; Luke 10:33-35; John 4:1-42.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Telling Others About Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter and John in a Strange City.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Three Missionaries and Their Triumphs.

I. Preaching the Word Everywhere (v. 4).

After the stoning of Stephen the enemies of the Lord were more active than ever in their efforts to stamp out the new faith. With Saul as their leader they rushed back to the city, dragged from their homes and imprisoned those who confessed Christ. In this the devil overreached himself, for the believers took flight and went everywhere preaching the word. The time had come for the witness-bearing to extend beyond Jerusalem and Judea. Preaching was not confined to the twelve. The Lord thus makes the devil's wickedness to further his own purpose. Frequently, in the hour of trial, Christians see more clearly their duty and bestir themselves to perform it. If Christians will not move on, the Lord will shove them on.

II. Philip Preaching the Gospel in Samaria. (vv. 5-13).

Hitherto the gospel had reached only Jews; now its scope broadens and a Jew is preaching to Samaritans, and Samaritans are rejoicing in the gospel of Christ proclaimed by a Jew. His preaching was fruitful for multitudes believed his message. Much joy in this Samaritan city followed the reception of the message. Both Samaritans and Jews were looking for Christ, so they were glad to know that the Christ had come. Christ is the one name and person who will break down race prejudice. In him there is unity and real brotherhood, for he is the universal man. The only hope of the world is Christ.

So great was Philip's success that Simon Magnus professed faith and was baptized. Simon was a sorcerer who by magical devices had made a great reputation, gaining control of many of the credulous and ignorant, so that they regarded him as some great one from God (v. 10). The people turned from this sorcerer to the gospel of Christ.

III. Peter and John Sent to Samaria (vv. 14-17).

The church at Jerusalem sent two of its best men to encourage the work. They discerned that the Spirit had not yet fallen upon the believers, so they laid hands upon them and the Spirit was given unto them. These Samaritans were really converted, regenerated, but had not yet been filled with the Spirit's gift. Believers should seek the Spirit's gift at once, for this will exclude the interests of the world. The mission of Peter and John shows the unity of the church—the mother church gave sanction to the new work in Samaria. Much of the work of the modern evangelist is a failure because it is not properly followed up by those who will instruct and bring the converts into relationship with the living church.

IV. Simon's Wicked Request (vv. 18-24).

When Simon saw that the power of Peter exceeded that which he possessed and that it was received through the laying on of hands, he offered money for the gift. This act reveals the hypocrisy of this man. He professed faith and was baptized, following after them for a selfish end. To desire and seek the gift of the Spirit for selfish aggrandizement is to be guilty of Simon's sin. All traffic in sacred things has been called "simony," from the name of this sorcerer. Peter told Simon that he had neither part nor lot in this matter, that he should repent of his wickedness and pray to God for forgiveness. He requested Peter to pray for him.

Simon practiced the art of sorcery for gain and influence. Now that he found his profits diminishing and his influence waning, he endeavored to acquire new power. All persons who use their religion to further their ambitions to get gain are guilty of this sin. Sometimes men join the church for business, social, and political reasons; sometimes official positions are coveted for the prestige and power they give. Let all who are using the name of the church for business purposes be warned by Peter's rebuke! Let Simon's doom be a solemn warning to all!

Peter at Lydda and Joppa, Acts 9:32-43.

was the third time in two days that he had caught the intimation that he could have come home decently and humbly and been forgiven.

"Not that I pity him for what he accomplished, or what it cost him," warned the doctor, "I don't; I was very fond of the boy, Mr. Hilliard, but I wouldn't for the world have had him do anything else than what he did. No—but I do pity him because he can never know what we think; because he can never know how much we gladly forget; because he can never know why we are proud of him."

Hilliard's pupils were distended. "You were rather harsh with him, doctor, as I—"

"We were just, Mr. Hilliard."

"But if you recall the gist of Portia's speech—"

"I do." The doctor regarded him peacefully. "And it's very seldom that mercy is asked to temper justice except after it's become evident that justice is actually going to be just. Let's not deceive ourselves. And let's not put each other in the position either of attacking or defending Dick. It's not the time for that now. He's done all that any man can do, and he was a most lovable boy—most lovable."

Hilliard nervously addressed himself to Carol.

"I hope you agree with your father, Miss Durant—that eventually he'd have succeeded in Syracuse?"

"I never doubted it," she said loyally.

And then the three of them fell simultaneously to musing, and for the space of a minute or two there was quiet; the sort of quiet which comes just after the benediction. It was the benediction which Carol had bestowed upon a wretched sinner who sat there wondering how he could ever escape from the toils of his own cleverness.

"How long are you to be in town, Mr. Hilliard?" inquired the doctor, irrelevantly.

"That I can't say, sir. I had no other errand than this."

"You've never been here before? That is, you haven't friends here?"

He had expected this question and prepared for it.

"Several years ago," he said casually, "I came to Syracuse half a dozen times one winter—on business. I suppose I could find my way around even now, if I had to. But comparatively speaking, I'm a stranger."

"You're a business man, Mr. Hilliard?"

"I told you he was, dear," said Carol.

Hilliard nodded. "Yes, Doctor Durant. That is—I was. I have no business connections now. That's why my plans are so uncertain."

Again a heavy silence. Hilliard was cursing the impetuous haste which had caused him to fling himself into an invulnerable network.

"I'm sorry," said the doctor, rising abruptly, "but I've a consultation at half-past twelve. Thank you again, Mr. Hilliard, for coming to us; you've lightened my heart tremendously. I hope we shall see you again before you go."

"I hope so," said Hilliard, dully. He was whipping his brain to find a way out; but how could he explain those manifold, cruel falsehoods which once he had thought to be his retribution?

The doctor gave him a cordial smile, a parting pressure of the hand, and went out directly, leaving the two young people quite alone.

Hilliard, impelled to go and equally constrained to stay, fidgeted in his vacillation. He was uncomfortable and unhappy, yet curiously enough he had no inclination to depart. He assured himself that he cared not for the snap of his finger for Carol Durant; on the contrary, he was intolerant of her very presence; still he lingered, wishing that he hadn't startled himself.

"And you really came all the way up here just to be kind to us?" she said.

"Just to be kind to Dick," he corrected.

Carol was winking hard; Hilliard sprang to his feet. He could never bear to see a woman cry; it was immaterial to him who she was, or what the circumstance; he was powerfully affected—distracted. His single aim was to console her—it was a selfish aim designed primarily to relieve himself.

"But it's easy to see," he said desperately, "why he was so anxious to have me come. I . . . I have twice as many reasons to envy him now, Miss Durant. . . . I really have. And

"Oh!" she said, smiling tremulously up at him through the misty veil of her tears. "But you see, Mr. Hilliard . . . you're quite mistaken . . . I . . . I wasn't pitying Dicky; I was pitying me!"

He bit his lip sharply. No reproach could have gone deeper.

"That was your letter, you said?"

"Oh, yes," she said. "It couldn't have been for anyone else. Thank you so much . . . for bringing it . . ."

He was trying to analyze the emotions which stirred him. He had told himself over and over again that his love for her was numb; and yet here he was . . . unsteadily balanced . . . tormented by her grief . . . and lying to her in the next sentence—to protect his previous lies, and to give to her what she felt he could.

"I want you to have his war cross, Miss Durant . . . I think it belongs to you more than to anyone else. I . . ."

He stopped and stood irresolute; for she had broken down completely. He watched her and slowly the blood burned in his cheeks! He tried to order his thoughts, to select his action . . . if he still loved her, he was there to console her; if not . . . he ought in all humanity to console her just the same, even if it took another of those inexcusable deceptions. For an instant he was on the point of succumbing to a wild impulse to blurt out the truth and take the consequences . . .

He started; for she had motioned to him—motioned him away. He hesitated . . . was it love, or repentance, or only his disquiet to see a woman find out on what grounds the decision was made."

The Marion county suit and the Jackson county case were practically the same. Neither attacked the constitutionality of the state tax law, but raised the question of authority of the members of the state tax board. The attorneys for the plaintiffs in the two tax cases charged that the tax commissioners had exceeded the power vested in them by the Indiana tax law. While some points were raised in the local case which were not argued in the Indianapolis suits, it is pointed out that the principal involved was the same in both actions and that another appeal from this county would likely be decided just as the Indianapolis case was determined.

Inasmuch as the state board won its case in Marion county it is not likely that it would permit the Jackson county auditor to revise the tax duplicates according to the direction of Judge Cox's decision but will immediately take an appeal from his decision. The appellate court would be expected to render a similar opinion as in the case just decided, if an appeal were prosecuted. It is likely that the Jackson county judge will be asked to expunge the judgment from the minutes of the court. Such action would leave the situation just as it was before the litigation was started.

The Marion county case is entirely different from the suit filed by the Blish Milling Company against the tax board. For this reason the opinion today in no way affects the Blish suit, which involves the authority of the tax commissioners to assess earnings by an alleged arbitrary capitalization. The Blish suit was decided favorably to the defendants in the Jackson circuit court and if the state board does not wish that judgment to stand it will be required to take the appeal.

The county auditor and treasurer are placed in rather an unusual position since the appellate court has acted. They are enjoined by the Jackson circuit court from entering the horizontal increases in the tax duplicates which decision is in conflict with that of a higher court. These officials will likely wait for the matter to be cleared up in all of its details before making an attempt to collect levies based on the horizontal increases.

OPENING—

White's Coffee Shop

Takes great pleasure in announcing that it will be ready to open its doors for business on Saturday, Jan. 31 at 9 a. m.

For the benefit of those who are unaware of our excuse for being in the community, permit us to say that our mission here is to handle green coffee, roast it daily on the premises and grind it to your order. We shall sell nothing but the best quality which is imported directly for us.

The operation of roasting the green coffee to make it the tastiest beverage as it is known, may be seen at almost all hours of the day. The roasting machine is placed in plain view in the window at the front of the store. The customers can see their own coffee being roasted and ground and be assured of the freshest of products.

General R. E. Wood, acting quartermaster general of the United States army, has the following to say about coffee roasting and grinding:

"Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 1918—Coffee roasting and grinding ation of the localized roasting and grinding system is an innovation, but marking a notable advance in service of subsistence supply. Reports from organization mess officers at the camp where the first roasting and grinding plant was put in operation, are to the effect that the coffee is superior in flavor and strength to that previously issued. As a result of this increase in strength the consumption of coffee has been largely reduced in various organizations. Coffee-roasting plants have been obtained for overseas and will soon be instituted, and then work can be conducted abroad."

We will also have for your approval Freshly Made Peanut Butter. Remember we make this only to your order and under your supervision from A. N. O. 1 Virginia peanuts and nothing else.

house is still opposed to such action. The plan for dealing with labor, included in the house bill which was written by the railroad brotherhoods, probably will be slightly modified but it is possible that all labor provisions will be eliminated.

The difficulty now between the conferees is on section six of the Cummins bill which provides that rates shall be adjusted so that the railroads shall be assured of a fixed return of 5 1/2 per cent on their aggregate property value, with the provision that the government may divide all profits above this percentage for the benefit of the weaker roads.

The senate conferees are understood to have agreed to abandon the provisions of the Cummins bill providing for a federal transportation board, compulsory consolidation of the lines and possibly the anti-strike provisions, if the house will accept section six.

The house conferees are now working for a modification of the section and it has been suggested that a compromise be arranged by not fixing the percentage of the standard return in the bill, but leaving it to the discretion of the interstate commerce commission.

The conferees of the senate, it is predicted, will cause the house to accept the proposal.

Both conference committees have now decided it will not be necessary to return to the respective houses for further instructions.

WITH ONE DOSE

"Pape's Cold Compound" then breaks up a cold in a few hours

Relief comes instantly. A dose taken every two hours until three doses are taken usually breaks up a severe cold and ends all the gripe misery.

The very first dose opens your clogged-up nostrils and the air passages in the head, stops nose running, relieves the headache, dullness, feverishness, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! Clear your congested head! Nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only a few cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, contains no quinine—Insist upon Pape's!
